Admitted to the legal profession
1995

Appointed Senior Counsel
2020

Also entitled to practise in
Australian jurisdictions (Commonwealth, State and Territory)

Tim has over 20 years' experience as counsel, with a broad national practice in commercial regulation, public law and appellate litigation. He is regularly briefed by private firms and government clients in the High Court and intermediate appellate courts, as well as other courts and tribunals throughout Australia.

Tim has particular expertise in civil penalties and other regulatory litigation. He has appeared in many significant cases involving consumer, commercial, corporations, taxation and industrial law, including leading cases in the High Court.

More broadly, his practice spans administrative law, intentional torts, statutory construction, constitutional law, investigations and enforcement, defence and national security, industrial and employment law, privileges and immunities, inquests and inquiries, disciplinary matters and criminal law. In addition to his appearance work, Tim is often sought out for his advice in these areas.

Tim was appointed as Queen's Counsel for the Commonwealth in 2020 and has served as acting Solicitor-General of the Commonwealth. He is a fellow of the Australian Academy of Law.

Following his admission in 1995, Tim commenced practice in commercial litigation at Mallesons and then worked at the ACT DPP, appearing in a wide range of criminal cases. From there he developed a public law counsel practice at AGS, during which time he joined the ACT Bar as a government barrister. From 2022 he was the professional leader of AGS's national dispute resolution practice. Tim moved into private practice at the NSW Bar in 2026.
